Today's Program: Major Zac Bock Support Operations Officer 5th Security Forces Assistance Brigade

Major Zac Bock currently serves as the Support Operations Officer for the 5th Security Forces Assistance Brigade where the mission is to train and advise conventional military forces in order to build long-lasting trust among like-minded professional military forces and establish the United States as the partner of choice in regions of the world that are vital to U.S. strategy. Prior to this role, Major Bock served as the Brigade's Executive Officer.

Major Bock has served in some unique roles during his 15 years of military service, such as Aide de Camp to Chief of Transportation and a Foreign Military Sales Case Manager in Baghdad, Iraq.

Zac is currently on the promotion list to Lieutenant Colonel and going through the new Battalion Commander selection process. He and his wife, Emily, and their son, Rand, reside in Tacoma, Washington, where he has been stationed at Joint Base Lewis-McChord for the last 7 years.
